Demography is politics

Population change is poised to be one of the most crucial political issues of the 21st century. How future societies are affected by declining populations will be largely predetermined by decisions already made by previous generations and by choices we make today.

A LOOK BACK TO A TIME WHEN WE WERE LOOKING FORWARD

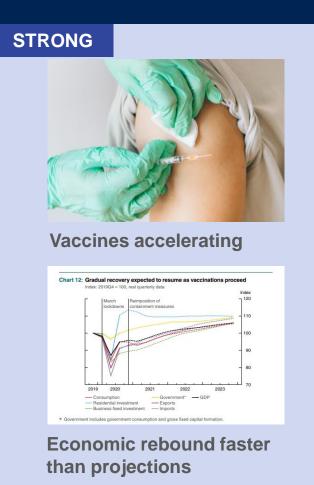

What Was Shaping 2025?

- 2. Horizon scans, expert interviews, internal workshops
- 3. The biggest drivers of change and the inflection points for the world
- 4. Foresight, not predictions

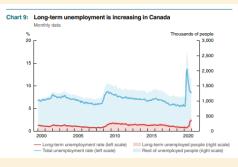

A LOT OF UNCERTAINTY IN 2020: ECONOMY

Virus-related costs after 2021, backlog in Health and Education

Long term unemployment is increasing

MORE UNCERTAINTY IN 2020: DEMOGRAPHY, POLITICS AND VALUES

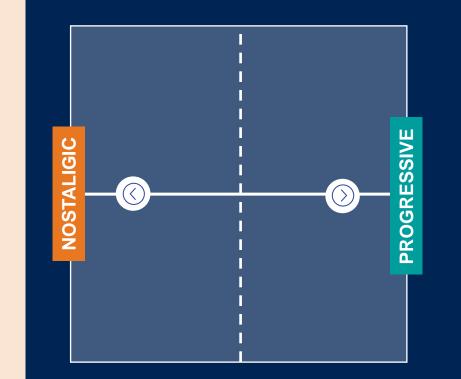

NOSTALGIC

House prices rising

COVID-19 sets back gender equality – especially mothers and ethnic minorities

PROGRESSIVE

Online communities work together to destabilise stock market

Protests for social justice – #BLM, #MeToo

FAMILIAR POWER THE MOST PLAUSIBLE SCENARIO

27

Less resilient, with high debt.

Stalled social progress ...climate emergency, elderly population, young people facing consumer debt ...this world is less stable than it looks.

POLITICS IN THE WORLD OF FAMILIAR POWER ... 2025

Fear of others and rising inequalities. Left and right distinctions sharpen.

Reducing global dependency, cutting CO2.

Policing, education, welfare and healthcare has not started to be fundamentally reformed.

Globally trade tensions remain. Cold War' is around control of data and the power of disinformation.

BRANDS IN THE WORLD OF FAMILIAR POWER ... 2025

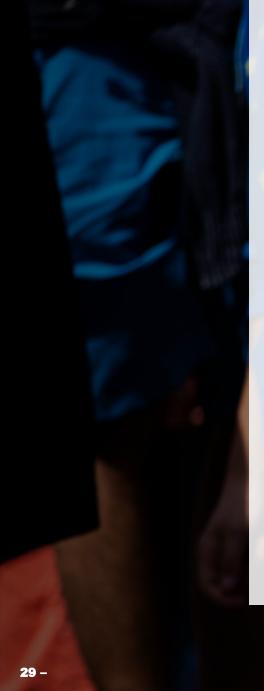

People seeking meaning in brands looking beyond functional to ethical attributes.

Interest in safety holds: risk-free, sanitised, touchfree, etc.

Need to show health benefits as a standard attribute. Personal, predictive health services are in demand.

Brands harness the power of data, IoT to ensure their offers are highly personalized.

DSO

ENVIRONMENT IN THE WORLD OF FAMILIAR POWER ...2025

We want change, but without having to change.

Heatwaves/fires are making parts of Australia, the US, India and Europe more difficult to live in.

Younger people continue to demand change.

Nations remain suspicious of signing up to targets worried other power blocs might default.

Agreements to decarbonise for the benefit of a particular crop, region or supply chain.

SHAPING 2025 LESSONS, IF WE WERE TO DO IT AGAIN

h

More consideration to regional variations. Local context matters.

Think beyond the present.

Five years is a short horizon, but we still overestimated our ongoing concern for safety, cleanliness, etc. We noted a period of change. We didn't recognize that it would be less about the pandemic and more about climate, ageing, inflation, immigration, etc. Under-estimated geo-political tensions and the prospect of war.

A Look at Today's Context through the lens of the IPSOS DISRUPTION BAROMETER

IPSOS DISRUPTION BAROMOMETER

Tracks 7 questions about economics, personal finances and the state of a county to provide a measure of the citizen and the consumer mindset.

WHEN HIGH, citizens are more open, tolerant and inclusive, less motivated to push for change.

Consumers are more likely to spend, more receptive to price increases, more likely to try new products.

The tone of communications can be more upbeat and future oriented.

WHEN LOW, citizens are more insular, intolerant and exclusive. More likely to participate in disruptive behavior.

Consumers are less likely to spend, more likely to look for savings and less receptive to new products.

The tone needs to be more empathetic, serious, factual.

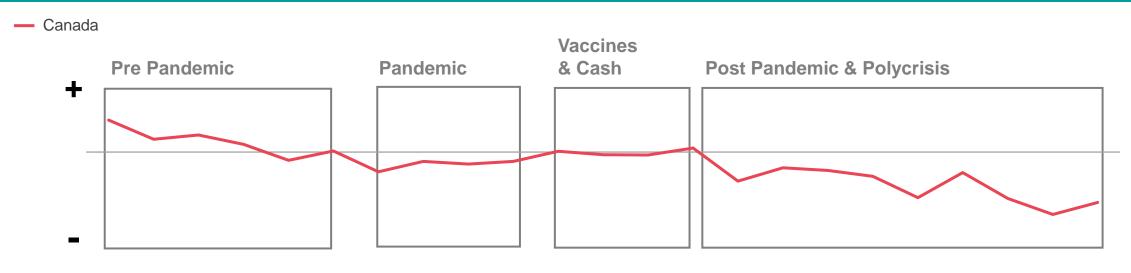

The Barometer has been validated against social/pollical disruptions and consumer spending over time in several markets

CITIZEN/CONSUMER SENTIMENT IN CANADA CONSISTENT DECLINE SINCE 2018

IDB is a combination of 7 items measuring shorter-term socio-political disruption and broad consumer sentiment/confidence it is highly correlated with actual retail sales and is remarkably accurate in projecting political change, protest, civil disobedience).

THE BOTTOM-LINE FOR CANADA

2024 is shaping up to be a turbulent year, long-term outlook is increasingly bleak.

02

01

Expect challenges with respect to both consumer behaviour and social relations. Potential for more labour disruption and more social protests.

03

A convergence of low sentiment and low expectations across generations. Middle generations struggle to make ends meet. Younger Canadians question their future. All have their doubts about the capability of institutions.

04

The mood is reinforced by a divisive political culture and will likely result in a "change" election in 2025.
